HON. SPESSARD L. HOLLAND
Governor

Honorable Spessard L. Holland
Governor of Florida
Tallahassee - Florida

The fiscal year embraced in this fifth annual report was notable in the welfare annals of Florida in that it witnessed the expansion of the public assistance program with the first additional state funds that had become available since it was launched.

As a result there was a material increase in the amount paid as cash grants and likewise in the number of recipients in each of the categories - Old-age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, and Aid to Dependent Children.

Of equal importance was the placing on a current basis of investigations of applications for Old-age Assistance, resulting in the adding of more than 5,000 names to the rolls and reducing the pending waiting list to the inescapable minimum.

State financial participation was increased by the action of the 1941 session of the Legislature in imposing an additional tax of 5 per cent on pari-mutuel pools and the diversion of the odd cents "breaks" at horse tracks, for Old-age Assistance; and the levying of an additional wine gallonage tax, a heavy truck highway maintenance tax and a tag selection tax for Aid to Dependent Children.

Net monthly and total payments of cash grants in the three categories, during the fiscal year, were:

Entry of the United States into the World War on December 7, 1941, is reflected in the fiscal policies of this Agency. It resulted in the budgeting of the new revenue for Old-age Assistance in the amount of $1,901,852.15 over a two-year period. This spread was dictated by the desire and obligation of the Board to maintain grants at their present level until the Legislature meets, even if welfare revenues from the 1942-43 racing season were largely reduced or completely wiped out. There was no way of determining in advance if all horse and dog tracks would open, nor of estimating to what extent attendance and play might be affected by dimouts and tire and gasoline restrictions. Should all tracks operate to the full legal extent there remained the grave question as to whether or not racing revenues from horse tracks would exceed legislative commitments to the sixty-seven counties, guaranteeing against reduction of the horse track revenue to the counties in 1941.

STATE WELFARE BOARD

During the fiscal year the net number of recipients of Old-age Assistance increased from 37,544 to 42,813, a total gain of 5,269. At the same time the average grant increased from $13.12 to $14.23, in itself involving an increased annual expenditure of about one-half million dollars. Obviously the increased grant and the large increase in the number of recipients will exhaust additional funds derived from the new horse track imposts and make it possible to authorize any substantial increase in the average grant only in the event revenues from the racing season ahead warrant.

Moved by the dire need, in many instances, of the aged and aware of the rapidly advancing cost of living, the Board sanctioned the expenditure of the $3,400,000 annual appropriation for Old-age Assistance, Aid to the Blind and administrative expense over a ten-months period, the remaining two months of the fiscal year (May and June, 1942) to be taken care of from the race track revenue. This action, which was taken with your approval, was a practical means of bringing benefits of the increased legislative appropriation into effect without waiting for the opening of the racing season late in December. This use of funds in hand permitted us to continue adding names to the Old-age rolls and to speed up investigations of all pending applications, a procedure in accord with the acknowledged legal and moral right of all applicants to be treated alike. During the year, 14,511 investigations of Old-age Assistance applications were made. Of these, 9,153 were found to be eligible and 5,358 ineligible. During the same period 3,682 names were removed from the rolls, principally by death.

Receipts from the new taxes for support of the Aid to Dependent Children program totaled $268,410.87 for the year. Of this amount $167,359.39 was derived from the wine gallonage tax and $101,051.48 from the heavy truck tax and tag selection tax combined. The new tax sources had produced less revenue than had been estimated, and due to a general decline in most state revenues, incident to changed conditions resulting from the all-out war effort, could not be brought up to the $500,000 intended minimum by draft upon the General Fund. However, the increased state funds, which were matched by federal funds, permitted some extension of benefits to needy children. During the year the number of beneficiaries increased from 2,973 families (7,458 children) to 4,622 families (10,919 children). At the end of the fiscal year applications of 8,175 families (20,414 children) were pending, as compared with 9,610 families (23,481 children) at the beginning of the year.

With more money available, the Board placed the ADC program on a need basis at the beginning of the fiscal year and therefore on a parity with Old-age Assistance and Aid to the Blind. Limited funds had previously been allotted to the counties in proportion to population, so that aid might be extended first to cases of extreme distress known to exist in every county. In changing ADC to the orthodox plan, the

Board directed, for the sake of equity, that applications should be investigated in proportion to the number on file in each county. This procedure preserved a balance between those counties economically prosperous and those less so.

The number of recipients of Aid to the Blind increased during the year from 2,567 to 2,736, by natural process. No new revenues had been provided for this category, although the 1941 session of the Legislature had so amended the State Welfare Act as to create the Florida Council for the Blind, a division of service under the State Welfare Board, with an independent governing body, charged with amelioration of the condition of the sightless. The sum of $45,000 had been appropriated for the biennium for the support of the Council.

The fiscal year 1941-42 showed a marked acceleration of interest in Child Welfare. A special committee of the State Welfare Board was appointed to work with the staff of the Department of Child Welfare to promote better care of children in the state. For the first time in several years the agency was able to maintain full staff in the Child Welfare Department. More adequate supervisory and consultative services were made available to the Districts and to other children's agencies and institutions.

Three new local areas were provided with Child Welfare workers to offer special service to children. Broward, Dade and Duval Counties were chosen because of special problems, needs and interest of these communities. The 1941 Legislature enacted laws covering the operation of all child-caring institutions, agencies, and boarding homes in counties of 267,000 or more population, and giving the State Welfare Board responsibility for licensing and supervising all such child caring organizations. A Child Welfare worker has been employed on the District Nine staff to meet this special responsibility in Dade County.

Near the end of the fiscal year the State Welfare Board authorized the employment of additional state staff in order to make possible further advancement of Child Welfare in Florida. Only the necessity for reduction of the budget for the new fiscal year prevented the opening of additional local areas for Child Welfare service.

Approximately 775 children in the local areas were given care and service through the special Child Welfare service program. Approximately $14,407.73 was spent from funds appropriated by county and city commissioners and others for the care of children in local areas. Twenty-five boarding homes were licensed to care for children. Inspection for licensing purposes and consultative service were provided for 30 institutions and children's agencies.

Cash grants, important though they were, did not constitute all the material benefits received during the year by Florida's needy. Agricultural commodities, furnished without cost to the state by the Agricultural Marketing Administration, an agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, were of a fair retail value of $4,379,007.11, an impressive total that was larger than any previously attained. These commodities included those distributed direct to clients through the Commodity Distribution Division of this Board, those distributed to public schools participating in the School Lunch Program, which numbered 1,508 at the end of the 1941-42 school term; and those given in exchange for free blue food stamps in the six areas where the Food Stamp Plan was in effect.

In addition, clothing fashioned in WPA sewing rooms and distributed through the Commodity Distribution Division of this agency, was of a fair retail value of $440,793.26 and consisted of 829,751 pieces.

The number of persons benefitting from cash grants to the aged, to the blind and to dependent children, plus those benefiting from direct commodity distribution, those participating in the School Lunch Program, and those who received free blue food stamps, was in excess of 350,000, a very considerable percentage of the state's population.

It is gratifying to note that recipients of public assistance in the areas in which the Food Stamp Plan is now operative - Duval, Hillsborough, Dade, Pinellas, Pasco and Holmes Counties - had the opportunity to receive the equivalent of an increase in grant, in that they were eligible to invest a portion of their grants in orange stamps, exchangeable for foodstuffs in nearly all retail stores in the respective areas, and to receive free in equal amount blue stamps exchangeable for such commodities as had been designated for that purpose by the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture. Certain low-income groups, other than recipients of public assistance, shared this privilege.

The end of the fiscal year marked the liquidation of the Civilian Conservation Corps, necessitated by the failure of Congress to continue the appropriation of funds for its support. Since July 1, 1937, when this Board was inducted into office, it had served as selecting agency for the Corps.

During the nine-year existence of the CCC funds totaling $32,149,034 had been brought into the state as compensation for enrollees and for the maintenance of camps located within its borders. Federal records show that 45,877 young men, all of them unemployed and many of them in need and with dependents, had been made self-supporting and in numerous instances had contributed to the support of dependents, and had been provided the opportunity for acquiring skills that should prove of large value to them in later life. The CCC is credited with having made an important contribution to the future lumber industry of the state through having planted approximately 20,000,000 trees in Florida soil. Its other activities, varied in nature, included the construction of 2,805 bridges, of all types; 2,167 miles of telephone lines, and 3,692 miles of truck trails and minor roads.

Services, in part a prerequisite to the securing of federal funds, were also rendered in large amount by district welfare staff during the fiscal year. These included certification for direct commodity distribution, for WPA work relief, upon which the state quota is based; for the School Lunch Program and for the Food Stamp Plan; services to cities and counties; investigation for local draft boards of the dependency claims of registrants for the selective military service; investigation for the Crippled Children's Commission and the State Parole Board; reciprocal services to other states, and services to children in those areas where child welfare centers have been established.

Since the entry of the United States into the World War, during the fiscal year, this agency has been alert to opportunities for cooperating with governmental, civilian and other agencies in the war effort. In its planning it has given thought to contingencies that might arise that would necessitate an expansion of its service. So that it might be more helpful to the State Defense Council, it named a Defense Committee from its membership and appointed a member of its staff to serve in a liaison capacity between the Committee and the Council. It has conducted various surveys for the purpose of more adequately appraising needs that might arise in emergency, or that might be occasioned by a dislocation of labor in certain areas.

It has encouraged state and district staff to take First Aid courses, to purchase war bonds and stamps, to conserve gasoline and tires, to meet transportation difficulties by the exercise of resourcefulness, and to practice economy in the use of materials and supplies. It has also impressed upon staff the urgency of instructing recipients of public assistance in the nutritional value of foods that are least expensive and most likely to be procurable, as a means of offsetting the higher cost of living and as a safeguard against food shortages. It was prompt to authorize military leave, with one month's salary and pay for earned vacation, for such personnel as might enlist in the armed forces.

Convinced that many of the recipients of Old-age Assistance might be able to secure remunerative employment for the duration as replacements for manpower drained away by war demands, it directed that those who were thus fortunate should not be removed from the rolls but that their cases should be suspended until the termination of their employment, in the event income was such as to make them self-supporting. It also issued a public appeal to employers, since it had no other means of bringing employer and employee together, to ferret out those of their respective communities who had been forced to seek assistance because of the lack of employment opportunity but who were physically able and capable of doing good work, for use in filling vacancies. It was motivated in this action by the realization that public assistance funds thus saved would go to the benefit of others in need, who were unemployable, and that recipients were entitled to the privilege of serving their country to the extent of their ability, without fear of jeopardizing their public assistance status.

COMMODITY DISTRIBUTION DIVISION

Agricultural commodities, furnished free by the Federal Government, through the Agricultural Marketing Administration, a unit of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, continue to play an important part in meeting the nutritional needs of the low-income groups of the state.

During the past fiscal year, partially through the expansion of the School Lunch Program and the extension of the Food Stamp Plan, Florida has received and distributed agricultural commodities of a fair retail value of $4,379,907.11.

This imposing total is broken down as follows:

Food distributed to general recipients	- - -	$1,454,717.26
Food distributed to schools	- - -	958,770.35
Free Blue Food Stamps	- - -	1,966,419.50

Since the nation, at the end of the fiscal year, had been at war for almost seven months, with the flow of commodities uninterrupted, there was good reason for concluding that despite an all-out war effort the Federal policy of providing abundant commodities to the states was to be continued indefinitely.

That the raising of national nutritional standards, rather than the boosting of the price of farm products, was a prime objective of the commodity program, was more than hinted at in the dropping of the word "surplus" from the name of the Federal distributing agency.

Benefits which the state derives from a continuation of the commodity distribution program are not confined to foodstuffs consumed free by its needy eligibles. These benefits are largely supplemented by the buying of Florida products, principally citrus fruits, by the AMA, for distribution elsewhere.

During the fiscal year, such purchases within the state, in amounts and of a fair retail value, were as follows:

Grapefruit, fresh	- - - - -	48,173 tons	- -	$1,248,707
Grapefruit Juice, canned,	- - - -	454,420 cs.	- -	606,474
Grapefruit Segments, canned,	- - - -	398,418 cs.	- -	705,021
Oranges, fresh	- - - - -	181,101 bx.	- -	224,829
Orange Juice, canned,	- - - - -	10,000 cs.	- -	19,000
Orange Juice, concentrated	- - - -	54,382 gal.	- -	281,390
Peanut Butter	- - - - -	552,000 lbs.	- -	68,194

Total		$3,153,615

Another service performed by the Division is the distribution to certified clients of clothing made in WPA sewing rooms. Clothing distributed during the year was of a fair retail value of $440,793.26.

STATE WELFARE BOARD

The cost of operating the Division, despite the increased volume of commodities handled and the advent of a period of near-inflation, hit a new low of $36,027.27 for the year, as compared with $37,883.02 the previous year, exclusive of the cost of certifying the eligibility of clients.

Popularity of the Food Stamp Plan as a means of distributing commodities was attested by its extension during the year to Pinellas, Holmes and Pasco Counties. The School Lunch Program, likewise, continued to grow in favor and at the end of the Spring term was in effect in 1,557 of the public schools of the state, with 108,467 children eligible to participate in its benefits.

Increased employment opportunities resulted in a decline in the direct commodity case load to 44,005 as of the end of the fiscal year. Families of four at that time were receiving commodities of a fair retail value of $3.72 per month, an amount held too small to materially affect labor conditions. As a further assurance that commodities were being directed into eligible channels only, the State Welfare Board had initiated a state-wide review of the case load.
